Meet the Chef: Giuseppe Franco

Born and raised in Puglia, Giuseppe Franco studied hospitality before working at acclaimed chef Alain Ducasse's Michelin-starred Trattoria Toscano in Castiglione della Pescaia at the age of 19. From there, Franco went on to hone his skills at influential restaurants from Bordeaux to London, studying bread making, butchering, sauce making, and other foundational cooking techniques.

Franco then moved to Paris, where he served in the kitchens of La Table de Cybèle and the Eiffel Tower's emblematic, two-Michelin star dining experience, Le Jules Verne, before becoming Chef de Cuisine at Denny Imbroisi's IDA. There, Franco shared his Apulian roots with the city's fine dining crowd.

Today, Franco teaches at the prestigious L'École Ducasse in Paris. He also offers private dining experiences, cooking classes, and restaurant consulting through his newest project, Skarcio Paris.

1

Ciao, Puglia!

Meet your guides in Bari and transfer to Rutigliano, the sleepy hometown of Giuseppe Franco, our Chef on Wheels. Get fitted on the bikes before setting off on a ride through the Valle d'Itria: a lush, fertile plain above the Adriatic where miles of dry stone walls frame flocks of sheep and fragrant groves of citrus. We'll reunite with Chef Giuseppe in the town of Martina Franca for an intimate lunch at his friend Michaelangelo's hidden ristorante. Afterwards, continue riding or hop in the van for a lift to the luxurious villa we'll call home for the week. Settle in and relax poolside with a glass of chilled Verdeca. Tonight, Giuseppe treats us to a dazzling welcome dinner, setting the tone for the delicious week ahead.

Meals: Lunch / Dinner

Caseificio and Cooking

Today's ride takes us into the countryside surrounding the villa—a rich, agricultural tableau that illustrates Puglia's unofficial designation as the breadbasket of Italy. Our first destination is a local caseificio, or dairy, where we'll learn about traditional cheesemaking and sample fresh mozzarella. Continue cycling into Ostuni, a stunning hilltop town dubbed "La Citta Bianca" for its gleaming, whitewashed buildings. We'll rendezvous with Giuseppe at the market and select ingredients for tonight's dinner before heading to lunch at a local trattoria. After, complete the loop back to the villa and enjoy a refreshing swim. Later, we'll roll up our sleeves for a convivial evening of cooking, eating, and drinking as Giuseppe shows us how to transform our market finds into a sumptuous Apulian feast.

Meals: Breakfast / Lunch / Dinner

Destinations: Pascarosa, Ostuni, Casalini

Accomplished: 29 miles / 46 km, elevation gain: 1,928 feet / 606 meters

Shorter Option: 18 miles / 29 km, elevation gain: 840 feet / 256 meters

Puglia's Architectural Treasures

Valle d'Itria's fairytale scenery is the enchanting backdrop for this morning's ride to Locorotondo, a charming ninth-century village named for its unique circular layout. Wander the honeycomb of streets and sip an espresso with the locals before continuing to Alberobello. Designated a UNESCO World Heritage site for its artfully preserved trulli—ancient stone dwellings capped with cone-shaped roofs—the tiny town is arguably Puglia's prettiest. Here, our friend Mimmo shares the secrets of these ancient structures before welcoming us into his family's trullo for a hearty, homestyle lunch. Opt to transfer back to the villa or challenge yourself with some extra miles. This evening we'll meet Giuseppe's friend Angelo, a Michelin-starred chef, who hosts us at his elegant restaurant in a historic palazzo.

Meals: Breakfast / Lunch / Dinner

Destinations: Locorotondo, Alberobello

Accomplished: 32 miles / 52 km, elevation gain: 1,797 feet / 548 meters

Shorter Option: 16 miles / 25 km, elevation gain: 1,050 feet / 320 meters

A Joyful Homecoming

In Italy, there is no more meaningful gesture than an invitation to a family meal. Today we hit the jackpot, joining our chef's mother for lunch. Our day begins with a scenic ride through an undulating landscape replete with olive trees and vineyards. Near Giuseppe's family home, his mamma awaits us with a bountiful country lunch lovingly prepared with produce from her garden. From there, our bicycles take us to Polignano a Mare, a picturesque seaside village perched atop limestone cliffs overlooking the Adriatic. Pop into Giuseppe's favorite gelateria and stroll Polignano's ancient streets before transferring back to the villa. Later, we'll regroup to fire up the oven for a festive evening of pizza-making the Italian way.

Meals: Breakfast / Lunch / Dinner

Destinations: San Marco, Castellana Grotte, Polignano a Mare

Accomplished: 27 miles / 44 km, elevation gain: 1,814 feet / 553 meters

Longer Option: 36 miles / 58 km, elevation gain: 1,873 feet / 571 meters

Riches of Land and Sea

Our route today takes us from Valle d'Itria's verdant interior to its coastal plain. Stop at a local seafood market where Giuseppe introduces us to a trove of regional frutti di mare—fruits of the sea—and explains how he chooses the freshest catch for tonight's dinner. From there, pedal through some of Italy's oldest olive groves and pay a visit to our friend Lucia, an olive oil sommelier, at her 14th-century masseria. During a beautifully prepared lunch featuring classic Pugliese flavors, Lucia will guide us through a tasting of the farm's award-winning oils. Tonight, gather for a final feast at the villa and prepare today's seafood with Giuseppe as the sun sets on a spectacular week.

Meals: Breakfast / Lunch / Dinner

Destinations: Fasano, Torre Canne

Accomplished: 27 miles / 43 km, elevation gain: 1,171 feet / 357 meters
